

4. The Director met with Loyd Wright, Chairman of the Commission on Government Security, and Mr. Ladd, a staff member of the Commission. I attended the meeting. Mr. Wright informed the Director that he was planning to devote his full time to the work of the Commission, and that he wanted to be as helpful as possible to the various agencies in solving their security problems. The Director promised full cooperation with the Commission, and it was agreed that Mr. Paul would keep in touch with Mr. Ladd on any information which he desired from CIA sources. One of the items which Mr. Wright requested was an analysis of the strength of the Communist apparatus in various countries abroad.
